Mutiny Revived at Missouri Penitentiary; Guard Called

Strike Follows Food Rebellion Late Wednesday

Between 250 and 300 Prisoners Refuse to Start Work Today

GUARD CALLED OUT

Tear Gas, Bombs and Clubs Used in Mutinous Outbreak

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 27.—(AP)—Tear gas, bombs and clubs were used to route seven hundred fifty convicts from the dining hall at the Missouri penitentiary this afternoon to quell the second mutinous outbreak in as many days. About twenty prisoners were injured in a clash with prison guards. A company of National guards were used also to quell the prisoners.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., March 27.—(AP)—A strike among prisoners following a food rebellion yesterday, spread rapidly today and at 10:30 a. m. today, prison officials announced that between 250 to 300 prisoners had refused to go to work in various factories of the penitentiary.

Approximately 150 on the first floor refused to start work after breakfast today, and several of them demanded less work and better food. Warden Leslie Rudolph entered the prison and told them they would have to work or go back to their cells. About 60 refused to start working and were locked up.

As much as he could "and if trouble is bound to come, the prison organization will meet it accordingly," Governor Henry Caulfield was called from the executive mansion, and went into conference with members of the prison board.

Later the National Guard was called out and placed at the penitentiary as a precaution against any outbreak that might occur.

The prison houses more than 4,000 prisoners, although it was originally built for only 2,000.

Hempstead County Is Praised by Commercial Appeal Writer

Alexander, of "I Reckon So, Fame, of 'I Reckon City"

By T. H. ALEXANDER
("I Reckon So" Columnist, in the Memphis Commercial Appeal)

IN ARKANSAS, March 25.—Arkansas has learned the hard lesson of other southern states that King Cotton is a pretender to the throne of prosperity.

Yesterday we visited Hempstead county, a hundred miles south of Hot Springs. Its county seat is Washington and it is the center of the famous watermelon district of Arkansas.

En route near Nashville, Ark., we rode from more than a mile through a peach orchard which is heralded as the world's largest. For nine miles in one direction one may walk through this vast orchard in the foothills of Ozarks, which in other years would have been given over to the cultivation of cotton. Hundreds of acres of peaches go out annually from this great orchard with its millions of trees.

The average Georgia or Carolina melon is a pigmy compared to the kind raised at Hope. The county produces many thousands of melons weighing more than 100 pounds each. Last year, back in Tennessee, I helped consume a small Hope watermelon weighing only 86 pounds and the whole family ate on it at odd moments for a week. It is a good deal of watermelon, but rather small as Arkansas melons go.

Each August the Hope Chamber of Commerce fosters the annual watermelon festival. It is featured by a big parade to advertise the famous Arkansas melon. Last year under the patronage of the American Legion five cars of melons were brought to town and given away. Huge slices of seed watermelon are given to each traveler on the trains of three railroads through the town.

The largest melon at this festival weighed 132 1/2 pounds. This seems a little heavy for a melon even in

American Legion at City Hall Tonight

The American Legion and the Legion Auxiliary will hold their monthly meeting at 7:30 o'clock tonight in Hope city hall.

Barney Hamlin, post commander, will be in charge of the meeting, with Mrs. L. Carter Johnson, president of the Auxiliary, in charge of the Women's division. The Legion some time ago set the last Thursday in each month as the regular meeting night, and a good turnout is expected tonight.

Appeal Filed for Stay of Execution

Would Have Walked to Chair Friday For Brutal Murder

LITTLE ROCK, March 27.—(AP)—Appeal was filed in Supreme Court here late this afternoon which automatically stayed the execution of Bud Nolan, Little Rock county negro to have died in the electric chair tomorrow for the murder of two Little Rock county white men. Sam Trimble, Little Rock attorney, filed the appeal.

LITTLE ROCK, March 27.—(AP)—Unless granted clemency by Governor Parnell before 7 o'clock tomorrow morning, Bud Nolan, aged 42, negro, will walk to the electric chair alone as a third negro to pay his life for the murder of Bud Morgan and Ed Dubley, Little Rock county white farmer last December.

Electrocution is scheduled one week from the hour: his two companions Mack Brown and John Greene paid with death for the same crime.

Party Cocktail Later Drink From Conference

PARIS, March 27.—The Party cocktail is the latest and newest development of the Naval Conference in London. So many of the French delegates and American correspondents came to Paris, that Harry McElhenny, proprietor of the New York Bar, devised a beverage on a real party basis: five parts, one part Scotch whiskey, one part bourbon, one part French vermouth, one part Italian vermouth and one part Japanese sake.

Relatives Given $10,000 Verdict in LaFayette Court

Plaintiffs Win Case Involving Dead Officer's Insurance Policy

MAY BE APPEALED

Letter Produced Alleged to Have Been Written by Sheriff

LEWISVILLE, March 27.—Relatives of former Sheriff J. W. Miller were awarded $10,000 and interest from the Home Life Insurance Company by a jury in LaFayette Circuit Court here late Wednesday afternoon. The jurors stood 10 to 2 in favor of the plaintiffs.

Sheriff Miller was found dead with a bullet wound through the head last year. He had failed to make a settlement with the state at the required time.

He held an insurance policy containing a clause which nullified the policy in case of suicide within a year. The company refused to pay it on the grounds that Miller killed himself. The relatives contended that he was killed by an unknown assailant.

A letter was produced by attorneys for the insurance company alleged to have been written by the sheriff to Miss Fannie Trussell about 24 hours before he was found dead. In it he told of his financial troubles and mentioned the shortage that existed in his accounts, saying that he had not obtained any of the money.

Speaking of his daughter who was employed in his office, the sheriff wrote: "Georgia acted just like it did not concern her. She is my daughter. God knows I love her. But how could she act that way when she knows her daddy's life is at stake?"

He next accused several persons of having robbed him. His daughter said Wednesday that she did not believe that her father was thinking of his financial difficulties when he wrote about her but was referring to a personal incident. She said that her father did not doubt her honesty and in the letter referred to her connection with the office.

The verdict which was returned after three hours deliberation in effect is a pronouncement by the jury that it is believed that Sheriff Miller was murdered and did not take his own life. A verdict is expected to be appealed to the Supreme Court.

Girl Confesses In Attempted Suicide

Admission Made After Two Men Accused of Attack

FAIRFIELD, Texas, March 27.—After having accused two men of trying to burn her alive, 25-year-old Wilma Jones Wednesday admitted she tied her own hands and feet, gagged herself and then set fire to her bed in the attempt to free herself of forgery charges.

W. V. Geppert, county attorney announced Wednesday night that the forgery charges will not be dropped but probably will be continued until the next term of court. Miss Jones admitted she signed the name of G. S. Moore, business man, to a check for $250.

After her admission, she was released from the flaming bed at the Cook hotel. She named Moore as her attacker and later exonerated him by accusing Todd Dodd, 30, also facing forgery charges as her accomplice. Dodd, held in jail at Mexico, will be released, Geppert said.

Gurdon Man Files in District Attorney Race

LITTLE ROCK, March 27.—(AP)—Millard Alford, of Gurdon, filed his corrupt practices pledge Wednesday with the secretary of state as a candidate for prosecuting attorney of the eighth district, comprised of Miller, LaFayette, Hempstead, Nevada and Clark counties.

Woman Wounded in Shooting Fray

Wife of LaPanto Farmer Held Under $1,000 Bond

MEMPHIS, March 27.—(AP)—Miss Margorie Hester, aged 22, is in a Memphis hospital today with bullet wounds in her face and chest, and Mrs. Bessie Keene, wife of a LaPanto, Ark., farmer, is being held under a $1,000 bond to answer for the shooting occurring last night at the young woman's home in LaPanto.

The condition of Miss Hester is serious. She told physicians here that she was shot in the head by Mrs. Keene. "Her first shot struck me in the cheek and when I awakened I saw her standing by my bed, she said, 'I screamed and she shot me again and fled.' She told here that Mrs. Keene was 'jealous of me.'"

Miss Hester's home is several miles from LaPanto, although the shooting took place at 10 o'clock last night, the marshal did not know about it until 1 a. m. today.

About 278 million pennies were minted in the United States last year, across the Atlantic ocean.

Plans for Fifth Annual Event Up to C. of C. Membership.

The annual poll of the membership of Hope Chamber of Commerce as to whether the Watermelon Festival will be continued again this year, will begin tomorrow.

Letters are being made up in the Chamber offices today, and will go out tomorrow, asking the membership to vote "yes" or "no" on the Fifth Annual Festival. Suggestions will also be asked as to management and feature attractions for this year's event.

Every year, a vote is taken as to whether the Festival will be continued, and every year it has been overwhelmingly supported. It brings the largest one-day crowd in the state to this city, attendance at the Watermelon Festival far surpassing the largest single day at the Arkansas State Fair, or festivals held in other sections of the state.

The Festival will also come before the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce at its monthly luncheon meeting next week, at which time the Chamber will determine what funds and other assistance it will be able to give this year.

Cloudy Weather Brings Moderation

Doubted If Fruit Trees Are Hurt by Cold Weather

ATLANTA, March 27.—(AP)—Cloudy weather over most parts of the south last night brought a moderation in temperature in the cotton belt states, a report to the United States Weather Bureau here today indicated.

From all indications frost is expected to cover this area, while some portions of the upper southern states have reported frost there. C. P. Hermann, of the weather bureau said today that he doubted if fruit trees had been damaged by cold weather of the past few days.

The forecast for tonight includes cloudiness, warmer and probable showers in the southern portion of the cotton belt states.

7700 Bales of Cotton to be Shipped

M. Crump and Co., are making the shipment over Frisco Lines to Birmingham and Southern Railway to destination.

More than 7700 bales of cotton will be included in the shipment which is said by cotton men to be one of the largest single shipments ever made in the history of the textile industry. The cotton was assembled from Elytheville, Ark., Brownsville, Tenn., and Memphis.

Belgium will celebrate the 100th anniversary of its freedom from Dutch rule this year.

Mrs. Berdie Gentry Acquitted By Jury

Patmos Man Returns From South Texas

H. T. Davis, of Patmos, father of J. A. Davis, Hope postmaster is returning home this week from Edinburg, Texas, where he has been visiting friends and relatives. In a letter changing his subscription to The Star, from Edinburg back to Patmos, Mr. Davis writes:

"It's nice down here in the winter, and pretty now. Corn is knee high, and cotton six inches—but there are so many other drawbacks that I'll take old Arkansas for mine."

Battle Insurance Payment Protested

Concern Claims Fulton Man Misrepresented His Condition

An echo of the death near Fulton in February of J. J. Battle, former bank employee, in Arkansas federal court at Texarkana, Wednesday when the Pacific Mutual Life Insurance Company of Galveston filed suit to void two insurance policies totaling $25,000.

Declaring in its complaint that Battle died of a "natural death," the insurance company seeks absolute release from its contract on the ground that Battle made false representations in his application for the insurance.

First reports of Battle's death were that he had drowned. It was learned later, however, that physicians had expressed the opinion he might have succumbed to a heart attack or some other sudden ailment, causing his death before he fell into the water. The tragedy occurred at Old River lake, a few miles from Fulton, where Battle had gone to fish. His cries for assistance were heard a short time before he fell from his boat, but no one was at hand, and he had disappeared when help arrived. His body was located several hours later.

Nothing was said in the complaint as to whether claims had been entered under the double indemnity provisions of the policies covering accidental death.

The company alleged that whereas Battle had denied any existence of tuberculosis or similar disease in his family, or any previous serious illness on his part, the facts were that a brother had died of tuberculosis, that Battle himself had been under treatment for "indigestion, colic and dizziness," and that a previous application for insurance with another company had been refused, contrary to his representations.

A double indemnity policy for $10,000 was issued Battle in April, 1929, and another for $15,000 in June, 1929, the complaint said. Both applications would have been denied had Battle stated the facts afterward unearthed the petition asserted.

The suit named O. A. Graves of Hope, executor of the Battle estate, as defendant.

Modern Kitchens Are Small and Compact, Says Mrs. Ihrig

Star's Cooking School Lecturer Declares Mental Attitude Important

With the release from much household drudgery, through the installation of labor-saving devices, the modern housewife is rapidly approaching emancipation, which permits her to enjoy the hours thus released in other activities. In the kitchen, however, she has been slower to take advantage of the opportunities that are extended than anywhere else in the house.

With the installation of a systematic procedure and the inauguration of mandatory meal hours, much of the drudgery remaining could be eliminated. The vast, expensive kitchens of the Victorian age are rapidly becoming passe and in their place, compact, kitchens, replete with the latest scientific devices that permit the housewife to be within reach of a maximum number of utensils with the minimum amount of effort, are being installed. Were the average business man to permit the same policy to prevail in his establishment, his wife permits in hers, his institution would crash with alarming rapidity. Not only in the mechanics, but in planning, successful kitchen administration lies.

How often have you heard "I wish I could get a meal with as little trouble as she does?" The "little trouble" referred to usually consists of plans, which had been in the making for quite some time before. Like most other worries, which beset us, once a task is attacked, its accomplishment is completed in much shorter time than our fears had led us to believe. ### Jury Deliberates Only 25 Minutes in Poison Case

WEEPS DURING TRIAL

Was Held in Jail Without Bond Following Her Arrest

EL DORADO, March 27.—(AP)—Berdie Gentry, aged 36, was acquitted of a charge of murder in connection with the death of her 24-year-old husband, who the state charged poisoned by the woman to collect his insurance. The jury deliberated 25 minutes. The case was given to the circuit court jury composed of nine farmers and one capitalist. One "merchant" and one teaming contractor, shortly before noon today.

Mrs. Gentry, who has been held in jail since her arrest in January, a few days following the death of her husband James Gentry, wept as state attorneys branded her a "cold diabolical murderess," while the defense lawyer called her a "bereaved widow" and a "condemned suicide."

The evidence against Mrs. Gentry was largely circumstantial.

Many Expected to Attend Dance Here

"DeLuxe Night Hawks" Engaged to Furnish Music for Occasion

From all indications the dance to be given Friday night in this city will probably be the best of the season. It has been well advertised throughout this section and a goodly number of dance lovers are expected here for the gala event.

The dance will be given at the Elmhurst on North Elm street, which is sponsored by that organization, and which is scheduled to start at 9:30 p. m.

For the occasion, the chairman of the dance committee has engaged the "DeLuxe Night Hawks," nine piece colored orchestra of Shreveport, La., and who have a reputation of their own as a jazz band, not only in Shreveport, but in Hope where they were their initial appearance here a few weeks ago when they furnished music for an Elks dance. Going over "so big" with those who attend dances, the chairman of the committee was requested to bring them back for another appearance.

Couple Are Found Guilty of Murder

Will Serve Five Years in State Prison for Slaying of Ed Varley.

ST. DORADO, March 25.—Mr. and Mrs. Paul Frutelle, Smackover restaurant owners, were found guilty of second degree murder in Circuit Court here last night for the slaying of Ed Varley, and were sentenced to five years in the penitentiary.

Testimony was completed late yesterday afternoon. Because of the heavy docket Judge L. S. Britt called the trial to a short time.

The pair was charged with first degree murder, but it was reduced to second degree. Court attendants believe that this is the first conviction of both husband and wife on a major charge in Arkansas in many years.

The Frutelles were charged with killing Varley when the latter went to their restaurant and started an argument with the woman. He was beaten to death.

Three other persons are scheduled to be tried this week in Circuit Court before Judge Britt. Mrs. Bertie Gentry charged with the poisoning of her husband to collect his insurance, will be tried tomorrow. She is held in jail without bond. W. P. Carroll and Jewell Sherron, charged with murder in connection with the "hammer murder" of Burt Bone, fellow worker of Carroll, a week ago, is set for Wednesday. Mrs. Gentry and the two men were indicted by the Grand Jury last week, and the Frutelles were indicted in December.

Second Indictment Is Returned Against Partain

LITTLE ROCK, March 27.—(P)—A second indictment filed last week against George Partain, who is charged with attempting to bribe a member of the 1929 legislature, and arrested in Memphis last week, was returned by the Pulaski county Grand Jury to Circuit Judge McGee today.

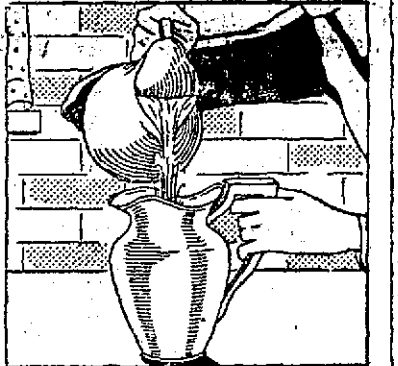

The new bill was voted because of a technical error in the original one on which Partain was arrested in Memphis several days ago.

Better Business Ahead

THE report of the American Federation of Labor showing a decrease of one per cent in unemployment in February, may mean that the country has turned the corner in the industrial depression which has existed for many months in the North and East.

Unemployment among union laborers declined from 21 to 20 per cent, between January and February, according to the Federation's survey in certain key cities, including the automobile manufacturing centers in Michigan, and the textile cities in New Jersey.

Newspaper and department store reports from all over the big cities of the East have reflected consistently poor business ever since the stock market crash in October, but there has been some improvement since the first of the year. The new year is still fighting the "hang-over" from 1929, but it should do fairly well when the memory of last year's market reverses is dispelled.

The outlook is particularly bright for the South and Southwest. Our section of the country is primarily a producer of food and staples—the things which people buy, even when they aren't buying manufactured articles.

National business leaders are looking for a good year, and there is reason to believe that our section of the United States will show a relatively greater improvement than the North and East. Their stock market boom didn't help us, but on the other hand, the decline of that boom certainly didn't hurt us. In the recovery period, we ought to show to good advantage.

Not a State Agency

THE supreme court of this state declared again that a democratic state primary election is not an agency of the state, therefore that the state political party, as a branch of the national organization, has the right to make such rules as it deems fit for the handling of its own affairs.

The decision came when a test was made to determine whether negroes should have a right to vote in a state democratic election. The state party rules clearly define that the selecting of its nominee can only be participated in by white voters.

Of course under that same rule any other party rule or regulation that the state democratic organization might make would be upheld by the supreme court.

An appeal will be taken from this decision to the United States Circuit Court of Appeals. The theory of the side that wishes to open the primary to the negro voter is that the Democratic party is dominant in Arkansas, that its nominees are always elected to state office, and that when any legal voter is refused the right to participate in the primary election, he or she is refused the right to vote for state officers.

If the federal court were to decide that it is true that a voter refused to participate in a democratic primary were in fact refused the right to help in election of state officers, than the Democratic party might have to change its rules, or else return to the convention plan of selecting officers. Nobody ever claimed that any particular person had the right to vote in a convention whose credentials to the convention had not been accepted by the convention.

The decision is important to the political future of the states north and south. Many states have legalized their primary elections. It was an experiment, and it worked with favor for a long time, and then there came a question whether it was better than the convention plan. Is it?—Hot Springs Sentinel-Record

The Date for Easter

WE read this bit of interesting information from the editorial page of a Nebraska weekly:

This year Easter comes on April 20. Last year it came on March 31. Next year it will come around on April 5th. Just why this greatest religious festival day should be so erratic in its wanderings through the months of March and April always causes considerable wonderment to those who have never taken the trouble to look the matter up. The proper location of Easter Sunday in any year is a matter settled by certain men hundreds of years ago, together with the goings and coming of the moon for the particular year in question. The Council of Nice settled the date for Easter for all time to come, when they ordained that it should be celebrated on the first Sunday following the first full moon that occurred on the date of the Vernal Equinox, or within 28 days thereafter.

The Vernal Equinox is fixed, always coming on the 21st day of March in each year. In 1930, the moon is full on March 14th, and again on Sunday April 13th. April 20th is the first Sunday after the full moon of April 13th, therefore, Easter is celebrated on the 20th.—Morilton Democrat.

Deutschland's Over-Alls!

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

WASHINGTON—Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, who was taken from the presidency of Leland Stanford University a year ago to be made secretary of the interior, must realize now that one of his main duties is to worry over various aspects of the power issue. He knows that every time he touches this issue he is likely to get his fingers burnt.

Wilbur is chairman of the Federal Power Commission, which is being investigated by the Cuzens committee. The Boulder Dam act gave him the job of leasing the power from that great project. Being in charge of the Indian Bureau, he has a special interest in the leasing of the big Flathead site in Montana, over which the "Power Commission" has jurisdiction. All these things have brought him grief.

Favoritism Is Alleged

The main issue, as usual, is between the power interests and those—especially articulate in the Senate—who contend that the public is being fraudulently gouged. It has been charged that Wilbur favors the "power trust" and that F. E. Bonner, the commission's executive secretary, has been especially active in its behalf. Wilbur has tended to take the side of Bonner against Charles A. Russell and William V. King, respectively solicitor and chief accountant of the commission, who have demanded that the power companies leasing sites from the government live up to the Federal Power Act.

As for Boulder Dam, Wilbur has been accused of trying to deliver Boulder Dam power to private utilities in the face of demands for it from public utilities. The anti-"power trust" crowd also attacks him because it says he has supported Bonner's attempt to deliver the Flathead site to the Montana Power Company in spite of a bid by Walter H. Wheeler, Minneapolis engineer, which is declared to be more satisfactory and especially more remunerative to the Flathead Indians, its owners. Presentation of the background of this latest phase of the power fight here, described in this and a previous dispatch.

The Power Commission was organized in 1920, consisting of the secretaries of war, agriculture and interior, and charged with giving permits for development of power sites on navigable streams and public lands. The government retained the right to recover such developments after 50 years by paying the amount prudently invested in it.

Commission employees, charged with supervising engineering angles, keeping track of investment and even of regulating rates where necessary, were supposed to be obtained from the war, agriculture and interior departments. But they were not forthcoming because these departments had plenty of work for their own engineers and accountants. Thus much of the commission's work was never done, which apparently was quite satisfactory to the power companies and to Congress. By 1926 the commission had handed out plenty of sites while passing up most of the auditing and engineering work by which it was supposed to safeguard the public money and see that development schemes were sound and practical.

In that year King and Executive Secretary O. C. Merrill prepared a report to Congress showing the true situation and pointing to certain horrible examples where power companies had greatly inflated their valuations. Thus they sought to emphasize their demand for more help. But a power company got an advance copy of the report and the commission's secretary-members were persuaded to delete the objectionable parts—some 12 pages—despite Merrill's objections. Congress declined to make any additional appropriation for the commission.

Relief from Gas Stomach Pains Dizziness

The doctors tell us that 90 per cent of all sickness is due to stomach and bowel troubles. You can't be well if your digestion is bad; you are likely to get sick unless you relish food and digest it properly.

Tanlac has a wonderful record as a relief from digestive troubles, even those of years' standing. Local people, many of whom you know, are highly endorsing Tanlac. For example, Mrs. Ellen White says: "For years I suffered from indigestion. I got no relief from anything until I took Tanlac. After my fourth bottle, I feel like a new person and have a fine appetite."

If you suffer from gas, pains in the stomach or bowels, dizziness, nausea, constipation, or torpid liver; if you have no appetite, can't sleep and are nervous and all run down, you need Tanlac. It is good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs and barks. Get a bottle from your druggist today. Money back if it doesn't help you. Accept no substitute.

The "Cock-Eyed World" At New Grand Today

Long awaited but well worth the waiting, for "The Cock Eyed World," it features Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe and Lily Damita. The trend of the story takes the marines but now, in times of peace, confining their chief battles to passages of arms over their various lady loves. Since the advent of talking pictures, no production has come to this city with such glorious acclaim from all parts of the country as this achievement.

is an all talking picture. Based on a story by Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson, who co-authored the memorable "What Price Glory," it features Victor McLaglen, Edmund Lowe and Lily Damita-Lowe and McLaglen again the fighting marines but now, in times of peace, confining their chief battles to passages of arms over their various lady loves. The trend of the story takes the marines to Russia, to the tropics and to New York and Coney Island. Lily Damita, more fascinating, than ever, is their girl of the tropics; Lelia

Karnely their Russian girl and Jean Bary their New York girl. Quelling an uprising in the tropics is their only opportunity to do the battling the marines are noted for, and Walsh has, even in this comparatively minor engagement, eclipsed for drama, force and thrills any battle of "What Price Glory." "The Cock Eyed World" has every ingredient that makes for real pastime: humor, sparkling dialog, hectic love scenes, tense drama and a happy combination of all those things that appeal, from the screen, especially to the feminine sex. The supporting cast is excellent, with El Brendel, former star of musical comedy and vaudeville, playing plenty of honors with his incomparable portrayal of a Swede marine "Olson." Joe Brown and "Baby Burns" also have important roles. Havana: once a hotbed of yellow fever and other tropical diseases, now one of the most healthful and beautiful cities in the world.

ANGEL"

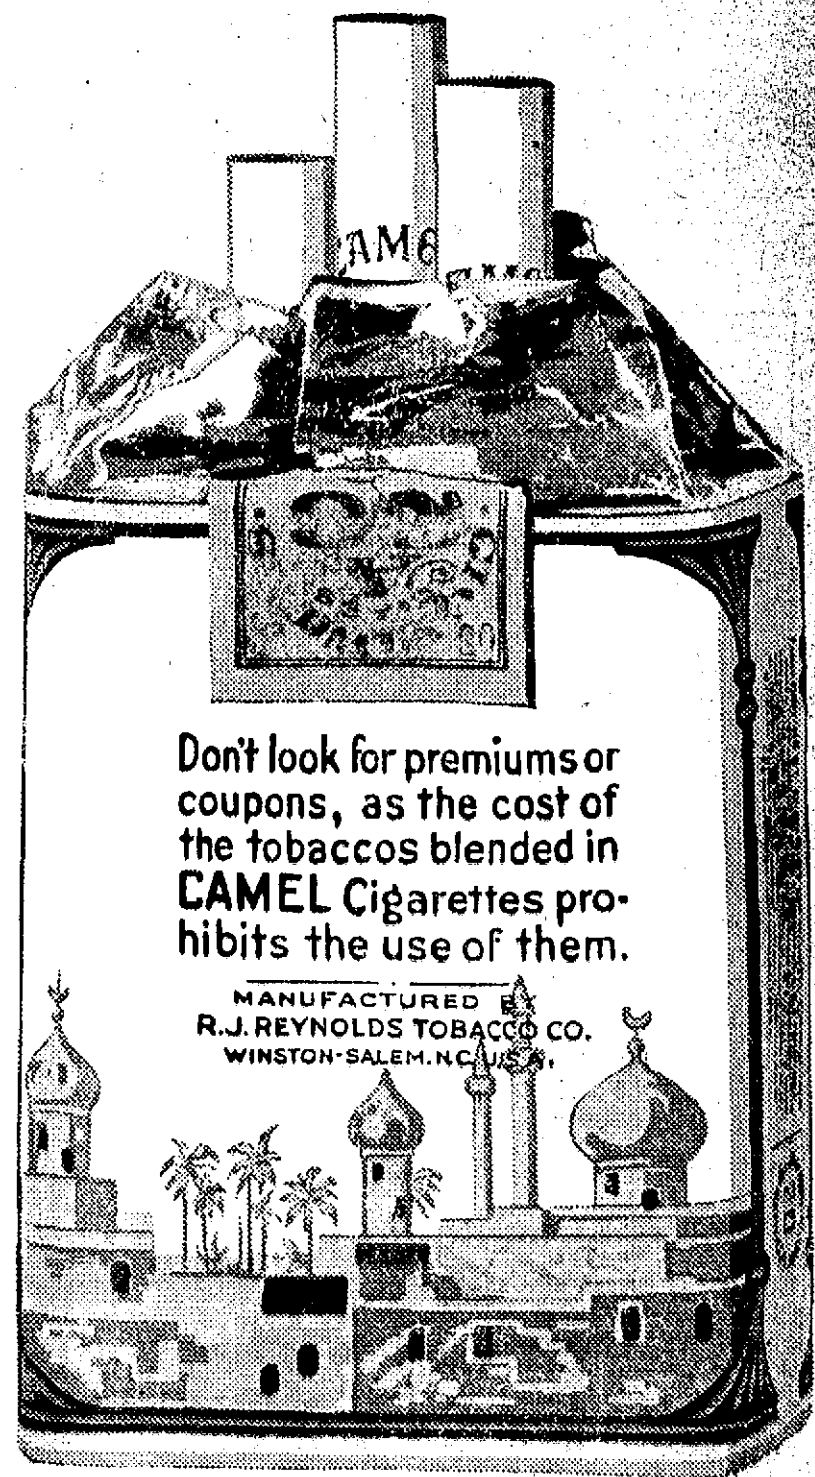

THE WORDS on the back of the package still mean what they say. No "extras," which do not contribute to the quality of the smoke, are included in the price of Camels. Just the utmost smoke-enjoyment that modern science can put into a cigarette.

That statement was on the first package of Camels manufactured and has been on every one of the billions of Camel packages sold from that day to this. When it was first written, other cigarette manufacturers were giving away flags, pictures of actresses, pictures of ball players—almost anything that would make the smoker think he was getting something extra for his money. The makers of Camels believed the smoker wanted a cigarette sold strictly on its merits, with all of its cost put into quality—a cigarette made of such excellent tobaccos—so perfectly blended—so mellow—so fragrant—that it would win its own way.

The vast popularity of Camels is a tribute to that four-square policy.

HOOKS AND SLIDES

by William Braucher

Spring Fancies
I WATCHED Connie Mack's athletes do a sham battle with the Philadelphia Athletics at Bradenton, Fla., the other day. Spring is a time for antics, the poets insist, and I may have been why I found myself wondering if the A's are going to be champions of the world again this year.

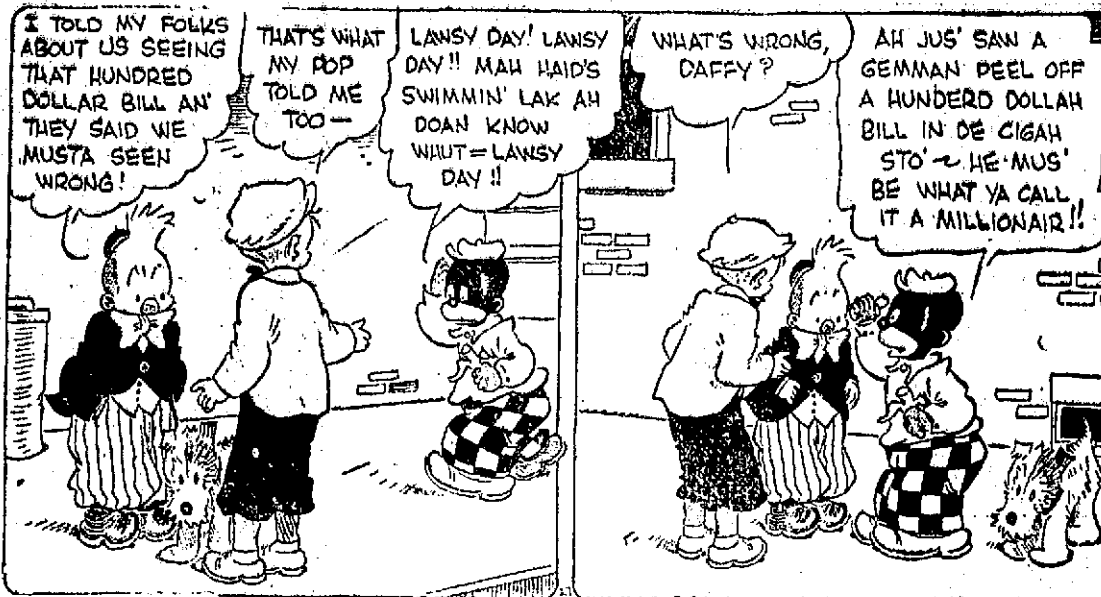

You can't tell a great deal in the training camps about how ball teams will be playing. July 4 teams look wonderful down south and come home and play like boys and charades. Last year Connie Mack left his team during the training season, dissatisfied at the way the club was performing. But after the schedule was started, it was hard to get the Athletics out.

There is a difference in spirit at the various training camps, however, and it is remarkable this year. The A's, in training, have looked like champions to me. They are going about the business in a matter-of-fact way. Mickey Cochrane helps to keep them on their toes, but without him, the team appears to be just another baseball nine. Philadelphia can't get the worst of anything goes wrong with that pitching staff. The team hasn't a great infield, with Fox, Bishop, Boley and Dykes. Fox is a good first baseman and a hitter from Bingle, but the rest of the inner circle seems to be only lukewarm.

No Club Above Improvement
THIS begins to sound like what the trade calls "the blast" or what in somewhat higher circles might be termed knocking. But, after all, ball teams are only ball teams and none is above improvement. I thought the Macks were going about their training activities in a somewhat bored and lackadaisical manner, and you can't play ball that way and win any marbles.

The Yankees, Tigers and Indians have just begun to fight, and the Macks are missing and Bob Shawkey has aroused the spirit of a team that played indifferently during the 1929 campaign. The Yankees, in the mood only a spring fancy, after all.

FRECKLES AND HIS FRIENDS

Money to Burn

DID YOU KNOW THAT--

BOSS MCCARTHY excused the Cubs from morning drill the other day and while the other boys were catching up on their sleep, Charley Grimm borrowed Hack Wilson's camera and McCarthy's automobile and toured Mr. Wrigley's island in search of interesting subjects for the film. Hack Wilson and Pat Malone share the perspiring championship of the Cubs. Lefty Moss, Bruin pitcher, can sail his curve ball through a knothole, but his fast ball is apt to miss the fence entirely. Beans Reardon, National League umpire, says Moss has more stuff than many pitchers winning regularly in the Heydler circuit. Sunny Jim Bottomley, Cards' first baseman, hopes he outlasts Rajah Hornsby in baseball. So that when the Rajah retires he'll give Jim his stride and swing at the plate.

and the "barber" of the A's, besides being a great and versatile infielder. Cochrane is generally considered aggressive, and he is, but Mickey or "Mike," as the players call him, is a shrinking violet compared to Dykes.

I got an earful as well as eye of Dykes' stuff, sitting on the bench with the A's in an exhibition game with the Cardinals at Bradenton. Dykes not only had something to say to each and every one of his teammates, from the bench or from his post at third, but he kept up a running fire of chatter toward the opposing outfit.

"You get on, kid, and I'll bring you in," Jimmy remarked to a rookie infielder. The rookie did his part and so did Dykes but Jimmy was fit to be tied when Homer Summa failed to score from second on his (Jimmy's) bingle to right.

As Fox came back to the bench after belting one of Sherdel's pitches to distant left-center, a hit that would have been a home run in any major league park, Dykes remarked: "Nine pop-fly, Fox. When are you going to start hitting?"

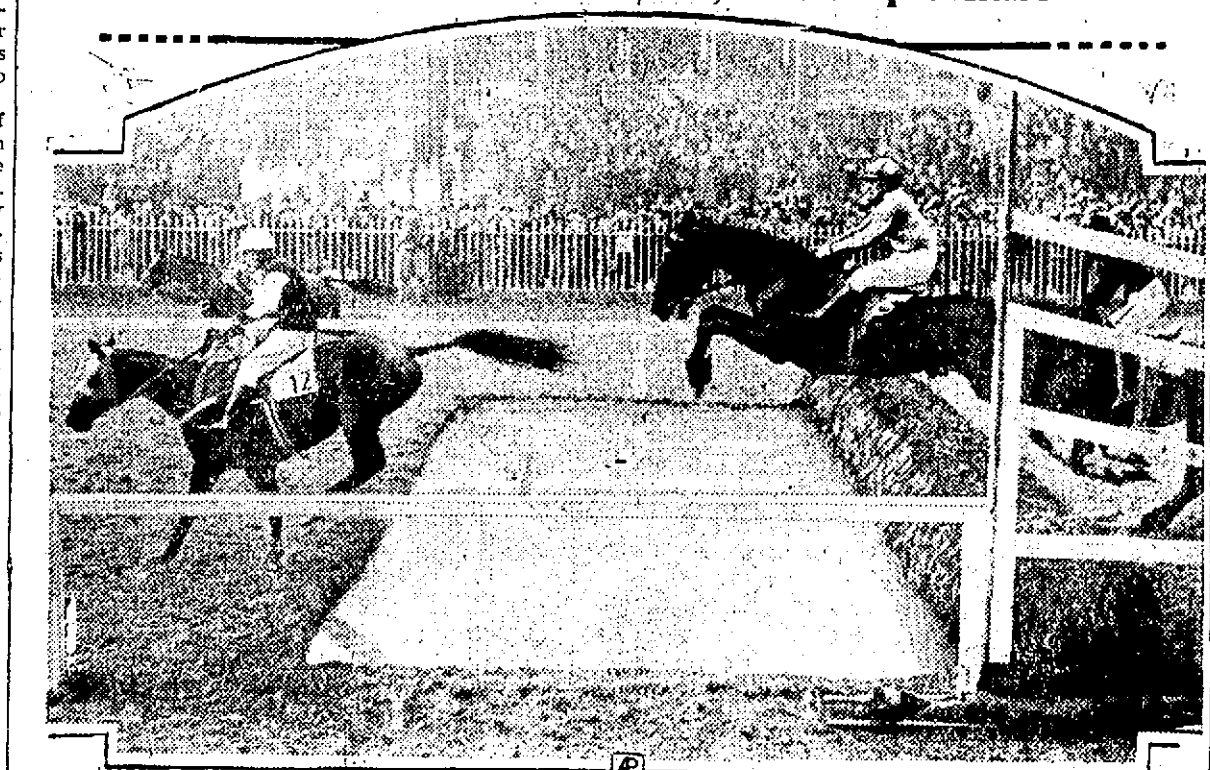

DYKES, who will be 34 this year, has been with the Athletics longer than any of the Macks except Eddie Collins and Cy Perkins. Jimmy is still going strong, apparently at the height of his career, while the other two are retired from regular duty. Last year, Dykes batted .327 for the best mark of his entire 12-year career in the majors, all spent with the A's. He filled in at short and second base in emergencies and played each position with the same skill he displayed when holding down his regular job at third base. He has an arm like a steel whip.

At the close of the 1929 season, when it came to casting votes for the most valuable player, Dykes received more recognition than any other member of the Athletics. Dangerous at bat, with a great arm and abundant fighting spirit, Jimmy should have another great year, doing as much as any individual on the club to keep the A's at the top.

In common with a flock of others who viewed the proceedings, Babe Ruth did not think so much of the Scott-Sharkey fight or of the performance either of these heavyweights gave at Miami.

"There's only one bird I would pay 25 bucks to watch in the ring," remarked Ruth. "And that's Dempsey."

70 Horses to Run In $170,000 Steeplechase

This is the famous water jump on the Gr and National steeplechase course, one of the most treacherous hazards on the four and one-half mile stretch.

LIVERPOOL, England, March 27.—(AP)—Through four and one-half miles of some of the stiffest country traversed by race horses a field of about 70 steeds will run here March 28 in the annual renewal of the Grand National steeplechase.

The horse that first covers this most difficult of steeplechase courses in the world wins a purse of $170,000.

Americans, with Easter Hero as their best bet, hope to carry off the premier prize but the Grand National is notoriously "anybody's" race and more than one rank out-

Robins Depend on Glenn Wright

Arm Seems to be Okay; Old Dazzy Vance Looks Good

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 27.—(AP)—Wilbert Robinson, always cheerful and full of optimism in the spring is riding higher than ever on a wave of enthusiasm this year.

He thinks he has a ball club after five years of disappointments.

"If Wright's arm is right, we will be in there," said Robby, "and I believe it is okay. Of course, I can't tell yet about the pitchers, but Big Jim Elliott looks like he is well again after being sick last year. He is a pitcher when he is right."

"The pitchers who did most of the pitching last year will be better in the main. Old Dazzy Vance looks good and he won't have another bad year. Some of the younger fellows have had a year's experience now and they will be more effective. Morrison and Luque, the Cuban we got from the Reds, will save a lot of games for us."

"Lopez, the young catcher who has been out on option for a couple of years, is ready now and will do a lot of catching for us. He can hit, too."

"Another thing, we will have more good men on the bench than we have had in a long time. And we have needed them. Even if they don't get in regularly, fellows like Finn, Slide, Warner and Moore will do us a lot of good."

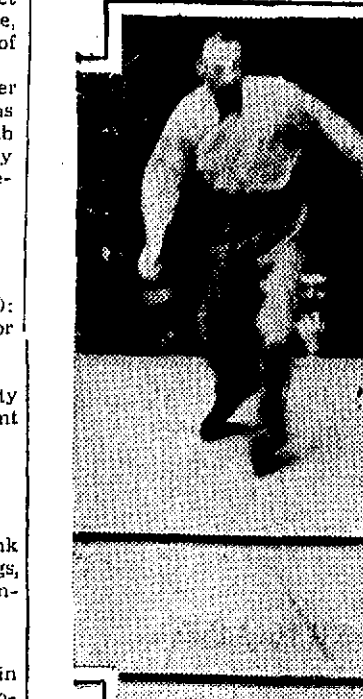

"I am sure we will improve over our last year's position. There was never a better spirit on a ball club than we have. These boys like to play ball and they will play a lot of it before the season is over."

Morris Invokes Napoleon's Code

Nelson Morris, center, Chicago millionaire, is shown in court during hearing of his suit against a theatre at Paris to restrain his French wife, Jane Aubert, the actress, from appearing on the state against his wishes. In this action, he invoked the old Napoleonic code stipulating that a wife can do nothing without the consent of her husband.

Johnny Risko Won, But--

All wasn't well with the agile John Risko, Cleveland's baker-boy heavyweight hope when this picture was taken. He is shown slipping downward during a barrage of lefts and rights lost loose by Victorio Jampolo, Argentine ringster, in the third round of their tenround bout at Madison Square Garden. But Risko recovered later in the fight to earn the judges' decision despite the loss of the crowd.

Hornsby Sees Another Cubs-Athletics Series

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, Cal., March 27.—(AP)—Rogers Hornsby's predictions on baseball are almost as keen as his bat.

This year he sees another Chicago Cub-Philadelphia Athletics world series.

"I don't see any team that can even give the A's a fight," the Rajah said, "while we have improved at least 2 per cent with Leo Harnett back behind the bat, catching, Lester Bell at third and several promising pitchers."

There were about 200 different Indian tribes in the United States at the time of America's discovery by Columbus.

Taking a number of factors into consideration, the value of the veteran Jimmy Dykes to Connie Mack's World's Champion Athletics hardly can be overestimated.

Gordon Cochrane, All Simmons and Jimmy Fox happened to be a trio of important daily cogs in the machine, not to overlook the importance of Robert Moses Grove and George Ernschaw, but Dykes is unquestionably the sparkplug, the pepper-pot

There you are, Crosby!"

Captain Strawn greeted the absent, without raising his head from the cablegram he was reading. "Have a seat, won't you? Be with you in a minute."

DRUNK AGAIN?

The directors just won't let Charles act as a sober part. In his role as one of the funniest men he always at his very best as a "k" and the tradition has carried over into the realm of the comic. In "The Lady Lies," as well as in "The Lady Lies," Charlie had to be around with the hiccup.

Strawn went on, grinning and raising his eyebrows.

"That had its effect. Livid anger painted and distorted Crosby's handsome face. 'You can call me any names you like, Strawn, but I can't permit you to label Doris Matthews a blackmailer! I have never known a finer, straighter, more loyal—'

"That 60?" Strawn cut in lazily, still grinning broadly. "Well, well! Then what would you call these, Crosby?" and he picked up the pair of sapphire earrings and rattled them on his broad palm.

"Those are earrings," Crosby began icily. "I made Doris a present of them last night."

"Friday seemed to be an early Christmas for you, eh? A fine cut crystal flask of perfume for your future mother-in-law and a pair of expensive earrings for your future mother-in-law's maid. What did you bring your fiancée, Miss Clorinda Berkeley?"

"That at least is my own affair, I believe!" Crosby retorted angrily. "As for the earrings, they were one of the last gifts I made to my wife. I gave them to Doris last night because—"

"Because you were damned short of money, hadn't you got your fingers into the Berkeley pile yet, and you thought they'd hold Doris till—"

"No!" Crosby interrupted, his head upflung, his aristocratic nostrils flaring. "If you will kindly permit me, I shall tell you the truth concerning the earrings. I might add that I shall tell you the exact truth concerning any questions you ask me, provided you have any right or authority to ask me the question."

Strawn's bushy eyebrows shot still higher. "Yeah? . . . Well, shoot!"

"My wife, who, as you doubtless know, is dead," Crosby began in his icy, well-controlled voice, "was a brunt. Her favorite stone was the ruby, which became her—enormously. I myself have a weakness for sapphires, and when I saw this pair of earrings in a London jeweler's, I could not resist them. Phyllis—my wife—admired them and thanked me for them, but as soon as she put them on I saw that I had made a mistake."

"Doris, who was her maid then, was present at the time, and Phyllis took them off and laid them against her maid's cheeks. The effect was—enchanting, as the stones were almost exactly the color of Doris's eyes. I am sure Phyllis would have presented them to the girl—"

"She did, however, laughingly remark that she would leave them to Doris—in her will."

His voice broke here, and trembled slightly as it went on. "She died suddenly, as you know, and without having made a will—"

"Which she would have done, if she had really contemplated suicide!" Strawn interrupted, with slow and terrible emphasis.

"I do not believe that my wife contemplated suicide," Crosby retorted, very quietly. "I believed then, and I still believe, that she became suddenly defanged, a not uncommon symptom of her condition."

"Yeah, she was going to have a baby, wasn't she?" Strawn interpreted coolly. "Which makes it a double murder—"

"With the agility of an athlete Crosby sprang for the detective captain's throat, but Dundee interposed, seizing the man's arm and forcing him backward, step by step."

"Please, Mr. Crosby!" he advised gently. "Violence can only make matters worse. You must believe that Captain Strawn has good reasons for the conclusions he has reached, and—"

"I beg your pardon!" Crosby bowed slightly, again in superb control of his anger. "Let me remind you, however, Captain Strawn, that a coroner's jury in London returned a verdict of 'suicide while temporarily insane' as the cause of my wife's death."

"A verdict which, you probably know, Crosby, failed to satisfy your wife's relatives and friends, and even some of your own friends!" Strawn pointed out sternly. "A verdict which you owed to the testimony of a maid in your own employ—to Doris Matthews, in fact!"

"Testimony which was absolutely true and accurate in every detail!" Crosby retorted coldly.

"And now Doris Matthews, the only eye-witness to your wife's suicide, lies in the morgue, foully murdered within eight hours of Seymour Crosby's arrival at Hillcrest to celebrate his engagement to another rich girl!" Strawn pointed out, emphasizing each significant word with the tapping of his pipe bowl upon his palm.

"And what would you say, Mr. Seymour Crosby, if I told you that the Hamilton homicide squad did not wait until you murdered Doris Matthews to take a vital interest in 'The Crosby Case,' as the newspapers called it 10 months ago?"

"I did not murder Doris Matthews," Crosby answered steadily.

"Yeah, we picked up our ears when we heard who Clorinda Berkeley was going to marry," Captain Strawn went on.

"So we sent Mr. Dundee, who happened to be one of the many not entirely soothed and satisfied by the coroner's verdict of suicide, to have a look at Phyllis Crosby's widow, who was consoling herself with another rich girl—"

CROSBY interrupted with a sharp exclamation, then turned his face as red with embarrassment.

"I am to gather then, Mr. Dundee, that it was your interference with Mr. Berkeley which resulted in Miss Berkeley's breaking the engagement this morning?" he said contemptuously.

"No, Mr. Crosby. I have not spoken one word privately with Mr. Berkeley," Dundee answered. "Until this morning I had not the slightest reason for discussing you with your future father-in-law. I came here partly out of curiosity, partly, as Captain Strawn has said, because I believed that the whole truth regarding your wife's death had not come to light. I wanted merely to study your face and your manner, to make up my own mind—"

"And did you conclude, sir, that I was a murderer?" Crosby asked icily.

"I came to the conclusion, Mr. Crosby, that you were a gentleman," Dundee answered quietly.

Crosby's "Thank you!" was genuine gratitude, not irony.

"Now, Crosby, suppose you tell me exactly what happened on the night of Sunday, May 6, 1928, at your apartment hotel in London," Strawn interrupted.

Crosby's nostrils flared. "I shall have to refuse. The subject is a painful one to me, and it has been thoroughly threshed out before the coroner's jury and in the newspapers."

Strawn reached across the table and picked up the little sheaf of newspaper clippings. "Looks like I'll have to do most of the talking for a while then, I've just been looking over these clippings on my mind, and it's pretty fresh in my mind."

"Please!" Crosby protested. "That old story has nothing to do with Doris—"

"No? Why, her name's in headlines," Strawn pretended to misunderstand. "Listen to this: 'MAID CLEARS SOCIETY SCION IN SUICIDE OF WIFE.' . . . Well, Crosby, I'll run over the story, and—correct me if I am wrong!"

"In October, 1927, you were married in New York City to Miss Phyllis Benham, daughter of a new-rich manufacturer, Cullen Benham. You had known her only a few weeks, having met her in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Van Rensselaer Lambert. Mrs. Lambert had taken the girl up quite suddenly and was acting as her social sponsor, until Mr. Lambert's sudden death, due to a polo accident, in September."

"After a honeymoon in Canada, you and your wife returned to New York, recruited the Lamberts' former butler, Wickett, to head your future staff of servants, took Wickett and your wife's maid, Doris Matthews, with you to London, where you occupied a large apartment in Queen's Hall, a new and fashionable apartment hotel. Apparently, you and your new wife were ideally happy—"

"Not apparently—actually! In every sense of the word, my wife and I were ideally happy!" Seymour Crosby corrected the detective.

"Yeah?" Strawn asked, looking at Crosby's face. "You own story, Phyllis Crosby committed suicide while still a bride—but according to my belief, supported by Doris Matthews herself, you and your wife were so 'ideally happy' that you murdered her!"

"That's a lie!" Crosby cried out passionately. "Doris is dead. She cannot tell you herself that you lie, but I can, and do!"

"Yeah!" Strawn said again. "Look at this!" and he picked up the scattered sheets of Doris's letter to her sister.

Miss Goodwin is said to have been in ill health for some time and it is thought that she became suddenly deranged and struck her mother with a hammer and slashing her about the arms and neck with a razor, then inflicted a deep wound into her own neck with the razor.

The family is prominent at Moorefield, five miles south of here.

Al Capone may be able to awe some officials, but not Governor Doyle Carlton, above. "He will be kept out of Florida by whatever force is necessary," declared the governor in answer to queries about a federal injunction the gangster's attorney obtained at Miami against his threatened arrest.

Diamond in Hot Springs Store Vanishes, Then Reappears

HOT SPRINGS, March 27.—The sudden disappearance of an uncut diamond valued at $2,500 which had been passed around for inspection this afternoon during an auction in the Blake jewelry store on Central avenue, resulted in a riot call being sent to police headquarters, and the suspicion that the Blake establishment was being "stuck up."

When the police arrived they found those in charge had locked the door, thereby detaining about 24 patrons. Among the officers who assisted in the search was Prosecuting Attorney William G. Bouie. After officials had gone thoroughly over the store, questioned and searched those inside, Mr. Bouie lifted a newspaper on the counter and found the missing gem. Who put it there is not known.

IT WASN'T THIS PAPER HE WROTE TO "I have a horse that is lame sometimes, and other times he hasn't a thing wrong with him," a farmer wrote to the editor of his favorite paper. "What would you advise me to do?"

And the editor replied: "Next time the horse is all right, sell him."

Negro Slayer of Adams Succumbs

Died in Lewisville Jail Following Shooting Affair

Rufus Thompson, aged 34, negro, who shot and killed Lucian Adams, white man and once star athlete of Texarkana high school, died in the jail house at Lewisville yesterday afternoon.

Adams was shot to death a few miles from Fulton Wednesday morning, when he attempted to arrest another negro for the theft of a stove.

Thompson started to flee, but was shot and wounded by Dick Card, a companion of Adams.

The negro was rushed to the Lafayette county jail at Lewisville for safekeeping because of the feeling existing against him in the section where the shooting occurred.

Adams had a warrant for Roland Cheatham, 26, a brother-in-law of Thompson, and former tenant on Adams' plantation. When the officers arrived at the home of Cheatham's father, General Cheatham, the latter was said to have told them he would not let them arrest his son.

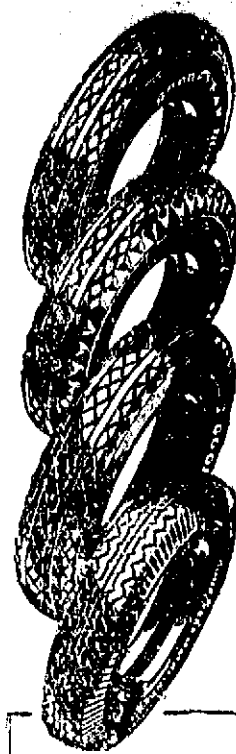

An argument followed and Adams was said to have knocked the older Cheatham down with a gun when the latter made a move toward his pocket. Roland Cheatham then threw himself upon Adams and the deputy struck him down with a gun.

Thompson ran across his road from a house and shot the officer, dropping Thompson.

THEY HAVE OTHER INCONVENIENCES, TOO

Her lips quivered as they approached mine. My whole frame trembled as I looked in her eyes. Her body shook with intensity as our lips met, and I could feel my chest heaving, my chin vibrating, and my body shuddering as I held her to me.

MORAL: Never kiss them in a flivver with the motor going.
